

I'm not the Teenager you had in Mind Poem

I'm not the teenager you had in mind,
I've seen her, I've seen her hide,
Crush on all, obscured eyes, great word choice!
With phone and judgement never out of sight,
Her clothing basic and bright,
My gosh, her attitude is like a flame in the dark moonlight, great line!
But I'm not the teenager you had in mind.
I'm not the teenager you had in mind,
I've heard her, I've heard her complain,
The teen timid from the high school pain,
The childhood we all left behind,
The homework we never want assigned, 😊
But I'm not the teenager you had mind.
I'm not the teenager you had in mind,
I've known her, I've known her all my life,
The hair always a mess, like a bird's nest,
The smell not always the best,
The lonely, lazy, and lost mindset. effective alliteration!
Thank god she's the polite kind,
But I'm not the teenager you had in mind.

By: Mia Larabie